The seed is quite expensive. The plant demands plenty of water—It is even sometimes advisable to irrigate by allowing water to flow between the rows. The plants, too, take up much room in the garden. They ought to set from 14 to 18 inches apart.

Early cauliflower seeds should be sown in holbeds or indoor seed boxes and the plants set out in the garden as soon as the soil is warm. Care must be taken to harden off the seedings by getting them accustomed to outfoor life before transpianting them. For late cauliflower the needs may be region of agricultural peace and plen-
